Parent Quotes

I feel that the Eco Committee has been really beneficial in teaching Sydney a wide range of skills she will use throughout her life, and increased her confidence. It has given her lots of opportunities outside of the standard curriculum framework which she's finds really enjoyable and motivating. It is evident she really cares about the Eco Committee and has put lots of time and care into her work at home to support the projects. Sydney is always excited to tell us about the community initiatives she is involved in, and I believe it is helping her become a well rounded hard working young lady.

"Being involved in working towards the eco-schools award has helped Logan develop a real sense of responsibility and pride. He now reminds us to turn taps and lights off around the house and is more confident and enthusiastic about helping the environment both at school and with our family"

Eco-Schools has helped Sydney develop a real sense of responsibility and teamwork. She talks enthusiastically about what she's learning and is much more mindful about recycling and looking after the environment at home. It's been a positive way for her to feel that her voice matters.

The school has helped my daughter become more mindful of the world around her. She now talks confidently about caring for the environment, understands the impact of our choices, and is developing a strong sense of responsibility for the planet.

I feel that being part of the eco committee has really benefited Stevie, she has always shown interest and been aware of eco matters but this has really peaked her interest and passion for the subject. It has made her extremely conscientious about the environment and has in turn been educating the rest of the family on her findings. She is really loving being part of the team
